READ THIS WAY

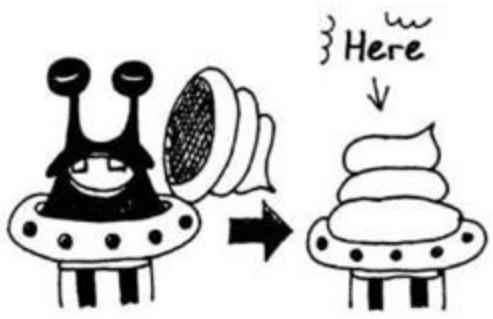
Reader: What's a Super Spotbill?

Oda: You mean Karoo? Well, it's a fantastic spot-billed duck. First of all, it's huge. And it doesn't have webbed feet (it's a land type), and when it feeds, it shows its teeth. Karoo is amazing!!

Q: Hello. I know this is rather sudden, but I have a question for you, Oda Sensei. It's about the Black Snail-o-phone. Can you draw it with its lid closed? How's this? After you explain it, please move on.



A: Well, I-I don't know... I don't remember drawing anything like that. With the lid closed, it kind of looks like...poo. (See volume 15, page 31.)

Q: Hello, how do you do? Oda Sensei, I always read the Question Corner so I wanted to send you a postcard. I thought I'd find some joke or pun that you planted in the manga and join in the fun. But they're so hard to find! You guys are really something.
So anyway, here's my question. What question should I ask?

A: Are you some kind of idiot!!?
See you in the next volume!!!
